

Alliance of Hazardous Materials Professionals (formerly the Academy of Certified Hazardous Materials Managers)

The premier credential within the hazardous materials management community is the Certified Hazardous Materials Manager (CHMM). A network of over 9,000 active professionals have earned the CHMM credential. The CHMM program has four basic principles:

1. Provide a recognized credential for professionals involved with hazardous materials.
2. Promote professional development through continuing education, peer group interaction and technological development.
3. Transfer knowledge and experience regarding hazardous materials among professionals and organizations.
4. Provide government, industry and educational institutions with a mechanism for identifying hazardous materials management professionals.

The EHMM Course

The “Essentials of Hazardous Materials Management” Course (formerly called the CHMM Overview Course), along with the ACHMM Hazardous Materials Management Desk Reference, 3rd Edition book will provide a comprehensive review of environmental laws, regulations and applicable health topics designed to assist individuals in preparing for the CHMM exam.
